When Benguet music was downright vulgar

By [Name]

When Benguet is seen as the land of mountains, rivers, and scenic views, it is also the land of a rich musical heritage. Benguet music, however, was once considered vulgar and even obscene. In the early 20th century, Benguet music was known for its explicit lyrics and wild dances. The music was often performed in public places, and the lyrics were full of profanity and sexual innuendo. Despite its reputation, Benguet music was a source of pride for the people of Benguet. It was a reflection of their culture and their way of life. Over time, Benguet music has evolved and become more refined. It is now considered a legitimate form of art and a source of cultural pride.

1. Chlorophyll a and Chlorophyll b were determined by the method of Lichtenthaler (1987). The total chlorophyll content was determined by the method of Arar and Munk (1990). The carotenoid content was determined by the method of Lichtenthaler and Weber (1987). The total carotenoid content was determined by the method of Lichtenthaler and Weber (1987). The total carotenoid content was determined by the method of Lichtenthaler and Weber (1987).

Figure 1. Schematic representation of the experimental design. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an experimental group. The control group received a placebo, while the experimental group received a treatment. The subjects were then subjected to a series of tests to measure their response to the treatment.

Figure 1. Schematic representation of the experimental design. The subjects were divided into two groups: the control group (CG) and the experimental group (EG). The CG was exposed to a control environment (CE) and the EG was exposed to an experimental environment (EE). The EE was designed to simulate a real-world environment with various stimuli (e.g., visual, auditory, and olfactory) and a complex task (e.g., navigation and decision-making). The subjects were exposed to the EE for a period of 10 days. The results of the experiment are shown in the table below.

By Joyce T. Banaag

MANILA—The popularity of the bulisong pen, a type of fountain pen that is used to write on the palm of the hand, has alarmed a councilor in the House of Representatives. The councilor, who is a member of the House Committee on Education, said that the use of bulisong pens is a sign of illiteracy and that it is a waste of money. He said that the government should focus on improving the quality of education instead of spending money on these pens.
